

A single dream. A world of hope.

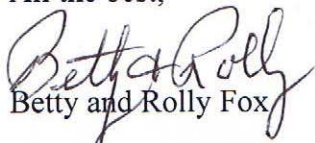

March 17, 2011

What a truly remarkable and inspiring year 2010 was for The Terry Fox Foundation and our supporters. Starting with Terry's heart-warming inclusion in both the Olympics and Paralympics taking place in his home province, this special year culminated in one of the most successful Terry Fox fundraising campaigns ever. As always, we were humbled and moved not only by the outpouring of support for Terry but also by the remarkable contribution made to cancer research by generous Canadians.

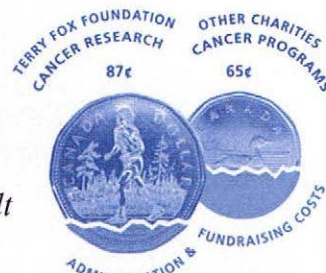

Everywhere we looked this year we saw Terry Foxers out in full force from coast to coast, commemorating the 30th Anniversary of Terry's Marathon of Hope and fundraising with a generosity of spirit that reminded us of Terry when he started his run in 1980. From April 12th onwards, we could not help but reminisce on a daily basis about what Terry and his friend Doug Alward endured, especially in those early months, battling terrible weather as they tried to explain the reason for the run. The "I Remember Terry" stories we read on The Terry Fox Foundation website and Facebook page gave us such great comfort, knowing that Terry and Doug were embraced by so many people we have never had the chance to meet or thank.

In many ways, "teams" of participants coming out to support Terry's legacy is very much a reflection of the wonderful sense of community and kinship fostered by all Terry Fox Runs. We pay special tribute to you, Jeffrey, for motivating and encouraging your members to embrace the cause. By simply sharing a few words of encouragement or inspiration with those around you, the fight against cancer is changed significantly. Count your team's successes as your own, and know that WYKAAO has made an indelible impact on cancer research. We thank you for your inspiring commitment, not only as Terry's parents but also on behalf of all Canadians touched by cancer.

All the best,

Betty and Rolly Fox

P.S. A personal thanks to you for representing the positive outcomes that result from supporting research and for providing inspiration to patients today.
