

Ward's Island

2016 May 23

The locals' residences

Another cottage area in the city

Each house is unique

Each carries its own character

Each has its own charm

Life here is serene

.....zen

.....peaceful

.....simple

.....green

There is sharing

.....creativity

.....something for children and the golden aged

Many houses are nestled in “woods”

Some locals have their houses yellow

Some prefer maple red

.....some green

Some houses are newly built

Designs are of different tastes

.....of different styles

Some residents prefer "as was"

A touch-up at the entrance goes a long way

Some put fun on the walls

Some give their dwelling a brilliant look

Some prefer dotting here, dotting there

However each house looks, for the locals, it is a comfortable place called home

The Eastern Channel is a stone's throw away

The promenade and the trail are tranquil

Mingle with the crowds?

The Ward's Island Beach is just a short walk away

Many keep a manicured lawn or grow floral trees

Even the passers-by can enjoy

That's why the islanders fought hard to save their homes in this tourist island park

On the Algonquin (another) island, some prefer to live on house boats

The north-facing houses have a good view of the Toronto Lakefront

Many have large windows

Some have patios

Many have lawn chairs looking out to the lake

....to enjoy the view and skyline of Toronto

Ward's Island and the Algonquin Island – Places worth exploring

Go slow to savour the alleys and the houses

It was a great day
Another 19,483 steps

Thanks for coming
